

Screenprinting

Specifications & Details

We have a manual four colour spot screenprinting machine.

Screenprinting is ideal for bold, relatively straightforward designs in solid spot colours. We do not do gradients or process print.

To get the best possible print there are some points that must be considered:

- 1) We need a clear image of what you need printed. Preferably as a vectored file - eps or PDF with all fonts converted to outlines | curves. These files are normally created by CorelDraw or Abode Illustrator. If your print is a one colour print please supply a solid black on transparent background png file and inform us what colour you want printed. You do not have to show the colour of the ink or the garment.
- 2) We do not accept files that we need to download.
- 3) If we receive files that would require editing, resizing or adjustments in any way, there would have to be a charge per image. This would be based on the time involved and could easily be in the range of $25+ for each image.
- 4) Our standard print size - per side of a shirt - is 10" x 10". Sometimes we can go up to 12" x 14" without further charge.
- 5) Print positions are normally front chest and centre back - sleeve prints are possible, but are only done in one colour.
- 6) Our machine can do four separate colours in each position - however, the greater the number of colours in your design, the higher the cost. We normally work on garments that we have supplied as this avoids problems of misprints and accidents on garments that we have not supplied, and therefore cannot replace.
- 7) Our pricing for screenprinting is offered all complete and includes all charges. We normally work on garments that we supply and can supply a full range of major brand clothing.
- 8) If a particular colour in your design is really important to you we need a physical sample of the colour because computer monitors all show colour differently.
- 9) One colour screenprinting 12 t-shirts minimum - 24+ for more than one colour.

If there are any part of these requirements you do not understand please contact us by email or phone and we would be pleased to help.
